Fedoskino Institute of lacquer miniature painting –
a branch of the Russian university of traditional art crafts

The Russian university of traditional art crafts (formerly the Higher school of folk arts – academy) is the only specialized university in Russia and the world that trains specialists in 29 types of traditional art crafts from various regions of the country.

The university's mission is to train artists of traditional art crafts directly in the regional and historical centers of this art – in villages, settlements and small towns – for local youth, as a guarantee for the revival, prosperity and demand for traditional artistic crafts in modern society.

The international mission of the Russian university of traditional art crafts is to foster interest and an ethical attitude towards countries and their national culture not only in Russia but also within the international community through the high aesthetics of artistic works in every type of traditional art craft.

The V International Forum "Traditional art crafts and higher specialized education: the unity of development" is held at the Fedoskino Institute of lacquer miniature painting, which in 2026 celebrates its 95th anniversary since its foundation. This is not a random coincidence with the festive date, but a conscious choice of venue for this large-scale annual scientific event.

The anniversary of the Fedoskino Institute serves as an occasion not only for the scientific and pedagogical reflection on the path traveled but also for a strategic discussion about the future of all types of traditional art crafts and higher specialized education in their inseparable unity and interdependence.

We invite the forum participants to take part in the work of thematic discussion platforms:
